TINA

🛱 😛 Tina is a very special cat, with a lovely happy life story to share

She was found in Bulgaria, and rehomed by a charity there to the UK a few years ago. Her wonderful new owner took a huge chance on her, and was not given much of a history about her, apart from that one eye had had to be removed by the Vets there, likely due to a severe injury or disease. She arrived incredibly scared and feisty, but after a huge amount of love and calm handling, she is now a super friendly,

Cats, unlike dogs, are usually not the 'going for walkies' sort of pet (though it can be done with great success). This means that for them, having access to ways of keeping active is quite important. There are many cats who are outside cats and will go on nice jaunts to your neighbour's yard and get into all sorts of trouble but a significant portion of cats are indoor cats. Take time off your day to play with them, make sure they have things they can interact and play with and consider getting a puzzle toy for their feeding times. If they are bored, cats can become aggressive or overly anxious, not to mention more prone to obesity but keep in mind that your pet might have health conditions that prevent them from doing vigorous exercise. Be sure to consult with your vet before implementing any strenuous exercise regimen on ill pets. WE'D LOVE THIS NEWSLETTER TO BE ABOUT YOU & YOUR PET TOO...
