Summer News

The Royal Norfolk Show

In July Dave spent a week at the Royal Norfolk Show, as Head Vet, supervising equines and livestock, providing first aid and overseeing animal welfare across the two days of showing, competing and demonstrations. He enjoyed watching our clients' successes in their respective events and speaking to everyone there to enjoy the Show.

The Royal Norfolk Show continued...

We are very proud of how our clients did at the Norfolk Show, from those competing for the first time, to regulars at the Show, to those there to educate the public about livestock farming.

The Sandringham Festival of Carriage Driving

Last month, Lauren was one of the attending vets at the Sandringham Festival of Carriage Driving. The weekend was very hot, but efforts were made by all competitors and organisers to keep the horses cool and comfortable. The events included marathon obstacles, cones, dressage and horse boarding and only minor first aid was needed throughout the weekend.

Smallholders' Club

In other news, our Smallholders' Club continues to thrive with upcoming talks planned on the topics of Smallholding First Aid and Sheep/Goat Foot Trimming (dates to be confirmed shortly so watch this space).
